FBIS marks its 40th anniversary today. From its inception during World War II, FBIS has grown into a worldwide service furnishing valuable collection, translation, reportorial, and analytic support to U.S. Government departments and agencies, to diplomatic missions and military commands, to friendly foreign governments, and to a large public readership.

FBIS' product is clearly recognized by many as indispensable today. I congratulate all of you on your contributions to the quality of FBIS' efforts and look forward to working with you to meet the challenges of the 1980's.
